

Transfer Pricing Seminar

On January 23, a transfer pricing seminar was held at Deloitte Tbilisi for representatives of banks and microfinance organizations.

Given the increased attention from tax authorities in today's globalized economy, it is essential for companies to use the market price approach in transfer pricing. Tax authorities worldwide are increasingly focusing on inter-company transactions. Legal and regulatory complexity across multiple jurisdictions make transfer pricing one of the leading risk management issues for global businesses.

During the seminar, Deloitte Georgia's transfer pricing specialists - Ketevan Kukhianidze and Mikheil Chapurishvili - discussed the topic in detail and addressed its local practical relevance.

The workshop proved to be very interesting and productive based on the positive feedback from the attendees.
